OUR CONCERT SERIES

Dearborn Subscription Series
Since December 2003 Motor City Brass Band presents four shows each year at the Ford Community and Performing Arts Center, Michael A, Guido Theater, in Dearborn, MI. Shows are crafted with a focus on entertainment and appeal to wide public tastes. Audience range at the 500 to 800 level.

Extensive media promotion by both MCBB and the theater draw concert-goers from far and wide. The Subscription Series marks a notable accomplishment to attract and sustain a broad base of supporters. The first show of the series is held around Halloween and the program is centered on a theme fitting for this time of year. The second show is a holiday concert featuring seasonal favorites and a renowned choral group. The third show in March or April is the very popular Motor City Festival of Brands including five regional bands totaling 300 musicians and a named guest conductor. To mention a few, past guest conductors include Leonard Slatkin – Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Bill Himes – Chicago Staff Band and James Gourlay – River City Brass Band, Pittsburgh. The final show in May is themed on a particular genre with supporting guest artists. Themes run the gamut of jazz, swing, big band, to the classics, folk music and Motown.

Under the leadership of Music Director & Conductor Craig Strain, MCBB draws its talent from throughout southeast Michigan. The 30+ musicians involved embody not only the pool of talent of local artists, but also a philosophy of making the ensemble available to everyone. The roster of players includes current and former music educators, attorneys, business executives, engineers, sales and marketing representatives, a music therapist, and many others.

Craig Strain has been at the helm of MCBB’s success for much of the band’s existence, providing the leadership to sustain a high level of artistry. He plans and conducts rehearsals as well as providing artistic direction for the band. A prolific arranger, he has created a substantial portion of the band’s library, representing approximately five to eight new works each year. Strain works as a composer, leader, and performer with many professional ensembles.
“Music is a more potent instrument than any other form of education”– Plato

Motor City Brass Band offers several programs for the youth of metro Detroit. Here is a summary of several offerings for which sponsorship is needed.

Motor City Youth Brass Band (MCYBB)

Motor City Youth Brass Band is a British-style brass band designed especially for brass and percussion students from grades 8 through 12 and college. Founded in 2006, it is the only ensemble of its kind in Southeast Michigan. With the unique brass band instruments and tuition provided by MCBB, band members experience regular rehearsals, sectionals and small group or individual instruction. They perform concerts and participate in a travel opportunity to competition annually. Many of the individuals from MCYBB are from area schools that have had their music programs downsized or eliminated. The youth band is a great extracurricular program that consistently provides students with a positive music experience and a creative outlook.

Operating Budget: $6,800

In 2014 Motor City Youth Brass Band competed for the first time in the North American Brass Band Championships, a nationwide competition and they won their section. Students that participate in NABBA are exposed to amazing experiences, hearing the greatest bands in the country, and learning from the world’s best performers and music educators. An opportunity like this, for these students, is priceless.

Competition Budget: $6,000

Brass Band Day

At the beginning of each school year, Motor City Brass Band hosts Brass Band Day. This is open to all brass and percussion students from orchestras and wind bands in the metro Detroit area. On this day, students get to work in small workshops with musicians from MCBB. They learn about brass bands, their instruments, and prepare a selection of music. The day ends with the students and MCBB performing a joint concert for their friends and family. Students get the opportunity to ask any questions of their mentors, and it also gives the youth band an opportunity to recruit for the upcoming year.

Operating Budget: $1,500
Instructors for Beginner Band Programs

One of the most exciting and recent collaborations has been with the Salvation Army. Motor City Brass Band has taken an active role with The Salvation Army Eastern Michigan Division in providing instructors for several beginning bands at Salvation Army locations. The Beginner Band Program is a secular outreach project designed by the Salvation Army to teach school age children to play a brass instrument, foster their artistic development and musical appreciation and teach collaboration with their peers. Their education includes basic music reading, music theory, instrument technique, and ensemble technique. Having achieved the basics of musicianship the children join together for joint instruction and band performance on several weekends and a week long summer music camp. The natural progression from this program includes MCYBB and SA Corps youth band programs.

They also work to develop interpersonal skills that are essential to their growth. The program is provided at no cost to the participants often from disadvantaged communities. MCBB members are responsible for leading these programs. Currently, this program is offered in Southfield Music School, Warren, Wayne-Westland, Monroe, and Royal Oak.

Budget: Pro bono value $2,000 per instructor.

Education Outreach/Artistic Residencies

Motor City Brass Band is proud to present an artistic residency program for metro Detroit that brings professional brass musicians to the students. We have partnered with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra’s principal tuba player, Dennis J. Nulty, principal trombone player Kenneth Thompkins and many other brass artists from the Michigan Opera Theater and Michigan universities.

This program brings professional brass musicians to a school district in each of Macomb, Oakland, and Wayne Counties. Each district receives an artist residency workshop and a concert with the Motor City Brass Band. The concert features the guest clinician and participating students. This gives students an opportunity to interact with a professional musician. Students get the chance to play and be critiqued, ask questions, and listen to someone who has mastered their instrument. An experience like this is invaluable and influential to a young musician.

Budget: $3,000 per residency

“The youth band opened my eyes to a different aspect of performing. The youth band introduced me to the world of brass bands, and before the youth band, I hadn’t heard of a brass band.”
